

ON ROMEO PAN RIGHT

A pen scribbles across the paper.

Uncertain eyes drift across the page.

Romeo's paper to...

... Juliet's book.

ON JULIET [JULIET COVERAGE] TRY: RACK FOCUS

A page in a book turned.

Restless eyes wander about the words.

An energy drink can, cracked open.

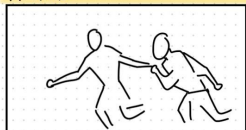

Eyes dart up from the writing, guarded at first, then enchanted.

Eyes slowly lift to meet a gaze, immediately enamored.

MONTAGE

Chasing after each other, playful.

Walking together, holding hands. Their arms swing in sync.

Lying together. One tucks the other's hair behind an ear.

ON: ROMEO - Telling a story.

ON: JULIET - Enamored.

Giggling. Then laughing uncontrollably. They start a quick bit.

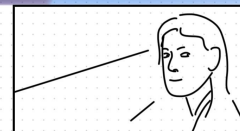

Content, foreheads tenderly pressed together never to part.

TRY: TRACKING JULIET → ROMEO

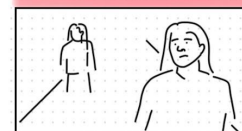

Juliet collects her things and leaves, passing Romeo.

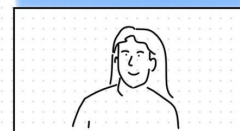

Romeo hesitates, then decides. Go get the girl!

3

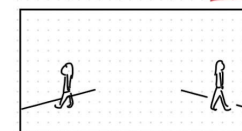

Juliet walks with her things, enrolls in. Romeo follows from a distance, smiles. Before she can get a word out—

(Romeo follows from a distance, smiles.) Before she can get a word out—

Okay so the tea is... we need to figure out the blocking of the scene, and I don't want to board what I think is right, because it might not be right at all when we put it on the set. I'll use my place to shoot what we came up with in rehearsal, cut it together quick & dirty, and hold it in time for shoot.

[COVERAGE OF SINGLES STACKED] + CROSS DISSOLVE SIMULTANEOUS

Romeo + Juliet part ways. Their love lingers, as do we.
